Maiden Paid Her Debt of Gratitude.

"fela's Promise," How a Little Indian is one of the prottlest stories western tille, and is to remain at the Breed for inday and tomorrow. It is entitled Iola's Promise, and is one of these superb Biograph classics, deal-ing with lols, a little Indian girl, who is held captive by a gang of rullans. from whose chitches she is rescued by Jack Harpeo a plospector. Her grat-tible knows no bounds, and she re-gards Jack as being something differ-sh from other white people she has seen, on the wagon train with Jacks father is Jack's sweetheart, also, all headed for Jack's camp. As luck has been squinst Jack, and he is gloomy. Jobs learns the reason, and promises Inia learns the reason, and promises to help thin and gold. To be ansured of her heavistance, he asks her to cross her heav, to further bind the promise. This art inverties the maiden, and she believes it a sort of tribul insignia. How she pays her debt of gratitude and finis the gold, also giving her life to protect lack's sweetheart from her cwn people who are emblitated against or feature of great importance Another feature of great importance is the second appearance of Marshall P. Wilson. He famous entertainer, characterizer and Vitagraph player, in a appert presentation of a study in factal expression, entitled. The five Senses. To say this is funny is supportioner, for Mr. Wilder is nothing if he is not runny, and the picture cannot help but delight all lovers of life very limited work.

Carle in "Jumping Jupiter." Richard (Himself) Carie's popular-my was never better exemplified than during the present season, for his latvehicle, "Jumping Jupiter," has sught the elongated comestion his greatest success since times of 'The Spring Chicken' 'Pumping Jupiter' is strictly a 'show' that is designed primarily to entertain, and like the other Frazes and Lederer production. "Madame Sherry," wins because of the quality of its cast rather than in force of numbers. Carle and "Jump-ing Jupiter" will be seen at Lyceum theater. New London, Friday, April 12. The play does not rely on its star alone to make its way, but employs the services of a company of artists. who have been more than once de-scribed as the model musical comedy cost. Earl Koselma composer of Madame Sharry, Three Twins, Bright Eyes, etc., has written a dozen cutchy numbers for "Jumping Jupiter." ORPHEUM THEATER, DANIELSON.

I DETRY.

Sometimes the little lips of him, all dewy-wet an' tender,
Are laid against the lonely breast that never felt their klas;
The baby eyes look smilin' up in all their shinin aplendor—Oh, little son, my little son, that I should mours like this;

Semetimes I see him comin through the furze of purple heather,
An oh, the toddlin feet of him, that never atepped the sarih!
An, when we're settin quiet like, Himself and me togother.
There's dimpled hands that becken in the peat smoke on the hearth!
